

August 26, 2026 | West Sacramento, California

TM Process and Controls, Inc. Achieves CSIA Certification

Exotek, the leading certified firm delivering Control System Integrators Association (CSIA) audits globally, announces that TM Process & Controls (TMPC) has successfully met the CSIA Certification requirements.

“TMPC approached CSIA certification as a strategic business initiative to strengthen their organization, not simply a compliance exercise,” said Jack Barber, certified CSIA Auditor and Partner at Exotek. “We had the opportunity to work with them throughout the process, including a pre-audit led by Joe Snyder, Exotek Senior Management Consultant, to assess readiness and identify opportunities for improvement. When it came time for the audit, the team was well prepared and successfully achieved certification. Their efforts demonstrate how early engagement with CSIA Best Practices can help organizations build a stronger foundation, with certification marking and validating that journey’s progress.”

“This milestone represents far more than an industry certification,” said Niniv Tamimi, P.E., President and Principal at TMPC. “It reflects the time and effort we’ve invested in building a strong team and an organization committed to delivering our best for our clients every time.”

Exotek congratulates the entire TMPC team on their achievement.

About TM Process and Controls, Inc. (TMPC): Founded in 2015, TM Process & Controls, Inc. (TMPC) is a multidisciplinary engineering firm specializing in integrated process, automation, and cybersecurity solutions for manufacturers. Established by engineers who recognized the value of combining mechanical process design and controls engineering under one roof, TMPC helps clients design, implement, and optimize reliable systems that support safe, high-quality production. Guided by a commitment to integrity, collaboration, innovation, excellence, and safety, TMPC serves customers nationwide with expertise spanning process design, controls integration, and industrial cybersecurity.

About Exotek: Exotek is the leading management consulting firm specializing in the systems integration sector. With more than 30 years of experience, our consultants offer practical industry insights and partner with leaders to improve organizational performance. We provide strategic planning, process improvement, and talent development services to enable building better system integration companies. Exotek partners with CSIA to equip SIs with the best tools and resources for success. As the first CSIA Certified Auditing firm, we have conducted over 450 audits for more than 180 organizations worldwide, delivering actionable recommendations that support operational excellence and continuous growth.

About CSIA: The Control System Integrators Association is a global trade association dedicated to advancing the control systems integration industry. CSIA has over five-hundred member companies from thirty-five countries. Since 1994, CSIA has helped member companies improve their business skills, provided a forum to share industry expertise, and promoted the benefits of hiring certified control systems integrators.

About the Audit: An independent firm audits operational practices such as business development, project execution, financial tracking, IT, HR, and management. Certified Member status confirms a company meets strict standards, is financially stable, and delivers professional, technically sound projects. Certification ensures quality, performance, and ongoing support.